

« Coast Is Clear For Urban Lifestyle »

Element and Indigo, two new communities in the emerging Marina Loft District on the west side of LA, redefine coastal living. Element offers 50 "true" loft homes built with a revolutionary precast concrete that conserves energy, is resistant to earthquakes and allows for larger floor plans and windows. Indigo offers a village vibe where residents can co-mingle in courtyards or entertain in spacious balconies. The design of Indigo's 77-unit building also entices entrepreneurs to take advantage of its cool media/meeting room and business center. Completion in late 2006.
